

Thermal Shock Testing System

Challenge

- Client is a leading automotive ancillary manufacturing gaskets and other engine components.
- Client needed deep thermal shock testing of its products on engines to clear quality tests by manufacturers

Our Solution

- AIPC designed and developed deep thermal shock testing systems – along with thermodynamic, electrical and automation system.
- AIPC provide installation and ongoing support and maintenance of the system – including remote support for software

